REQUEST OF MSNBC FOR EXEMPTION FROM LIST OF TOP FIVE NON-BROADCAST NETWORKS

NBCUniversal, LLC (“NBCUniversal”) hereby submits this request (“Request”) on behalf of its wholly owned non-broadcast programming network, MSNBC (“MSNBC” or the “Network”),¹ to be excluded from the list of top five national non-broadcast networks covered by the video description rules of the Federal Communications Commission (“FCC” or “Commission”).² As explained below, NBCUniversal believes that MSNBC is exempt from the video description rules because the Network does not broadcast, on average, a sufficient amount of non-exempt prime-time programming (i.e., programming that is not live or near-live or otherwise exempt) to bring the Network within the scope of the rules.³ Accordingly,

¹ NBCUniversal also wholly owns USA Network, which has been subject to the FCC’s video description rules since their inception and currently describes the majority of its programming.

² See 47 C.F.R. § 79.3; see also Video Description: Implementation of the Twenty-First Century Communications and Video Accessibility Act of 2010, MB Docket No. 11-43, Report & Order, 26 FCC Rcd 11847 (2011) (“2011 Order”).

the Commission should conclude that the video description rules do not apply to MSNBC.

The Twenty-First Century Communications and Video Accessibility Act of 2010 (“CVAA”) and the FCC’s implementing rules currently require that multichannel video programming distributors with 50,000 or more subscribers provide 50 hours per calendar quarter of video-described prime-time and/or children’s programming on each of the top five non-broadcast networks that they carry.⁴ As of July 1, 2018, this requirement will increase to 87.5 hours per calendar quarter.⁵ In the 2011 Order, the FCC adopted its earlier proposal to “explicitly exclude from the top five any non-broadcast network that does not provide, on average, at least 50 hours per quarter of prime-time non-exempt programming, i.e., programming that is not live or near-live.”⁶ The FCC defines “live or near-live programming” as “programming performed either simultaneously with, or recorded no more than 24 hours prior to, its first transmission.”⁷

Pursuant to the video description rules, the top five networks are those with the largest national audience share during prime-time hours, as determined by The Nielsen

⁴ Twenty-First Century Communications and Video Accessibility Act of 2010, Pub. L. No. 111-260, 124 Stat. 2751 (2010) (as codified in various sections of Title 47 of the United States Code); see also id.

⁵ See Video Description: Implementation of the Twenty-First Century Communications and Video Accessibility Act of 2010, MB Docket No. 11-43, Report & Order, FCC 17-88 (rel. Jul. 12, 2017) (“2017 Order”).

Company (“Nielsen”), and this ranking will update at three year intervals to account for changes in such ratings.⁸ The next update will become effective on July 1, 2018, resulting from the ratings for the time period of October 2016 through September 2017.⁹

According to the FCC, based on data provided by Nielsen for the 2016 to 2017 ratings year, for the first time since the implementation of the CVAA’s video description requirements, MSNBC ranked among the top five non-broadcast networks.¹⁰

MSNBC’s programming is well-known for offering around the clock live news coverage, including breaking news, commentary and live interview programs. MSNBC’s award-winning prime-time programming includes The Rachel Maddow Show, All In with Chris Hayes and The Last Word with Lawrence O’Donnell. In light of the volume of the Network’s live programs (which rarely offer any visual elements other than seated in-studio hosts and guests), MSNBC is precisely the type of network that should be excluded from the FCC’s video description rules under the Commission’s established procedures.

In preparing this Request, NBCUniversal reviewed MSNBC’s recent and proposed programming line-ups for a total of six quarters, from July 1, 2017, through December 31, 2018. Specifically, NBCUniversal identified the Network’s prime-time content and noted whether it was “live or near-live,” as defined by the FCC. Based on this review, and as further detailed in the attached Affidavit, NBCUniversal determined that over this six quarter period, MSNBC averages only 42 hours of non-exempt (i.e., neither live nor near-live) programming during prime-time.

In further support of this Request, attached are programming schedules from the month of February 2018, which provide additional details with respect to MSNBC's extensive live programming offered throughout each day, seven days a week.

CONCLUSION

As demonstrated herein and in the attached Affidavit, MSNBC meets the Commission's criteria for exemption from the video description rules. Accordingly, NBCUniversal respectfully asks the Commission to grant this Request.

Respectfully submitted,

AFFIDAVIT OF ANGELA Y. BALL

I, Angela Y. Ball, serve as Senior Counsel for NBCUniversal. In this capacity, I recently reviewed MSNBC's programming grids for a total of six quarters (from July 1, 2017, through December 31, 2018) to confirm MSNBC's eligibility for exempt status under the FCC's video description rules.

I asked NBCUniversal employees with MSNBC programming responsibilities to review the Network's prime-time schedule¹ during this period to determine the average quarterly hours of non-exempt (i.e., neither live nor near-live) prime-time programming. Based on this review of MSNBC's schedule, it is apparent that MSNBC did not average more than 50 hours of non-exempt prime-time programming over the six quarters.

NBCUniversal's analysis found that the number of hours of non-exempt prime-time programming ranged from 24 hours per quarter to 64 hours per quarter,² from which an average of 42 hours was calculated. The specific findings by quarter are set forth below:

Q4 2018	47 hours
Q3 2018	36 hours
Q2 2018	31 hours
Q1 2018	24 hours
Q4 2017	64 hours
Q3 2017	52 hours

¹ The FCC defines "prime-time" as the period from 8 to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 7 to 11 p.m. on Sunday local time, in the eastern time zone. 47 C.F.R. § 79.3(a)(6).

² During the 4th quarter of the calendar year, the Network generally airs more non-live, long-form programming to account for scheduled holiday breaks for its program hosts.

I hereby declare, under penalty of perjury, that, to the best of my knowledge, information and belief, all of the factual information contained herein is accurate and complete.

Angela Y. Ball
Senior Counsel, NBCUniversal
